Dear Sir/Madam,

One of my proudest accomplishments as a web developer is creating a variety of interactive and dynamic websites and applications that deliver high traffic and the best user experience possible. I consistently exhibit brilliant innovation, a strong commitment to offering first-rate IT support, and the ability to define robust app architectures and intricate user interfaces. As a senior software developer, I am currently getting ready for my next challenge and am convinced that I might contribute significantly to your company.

In my most recent position as Web Developer for Gammastack in India, I achieved great style and functionality of web forms using Python, MicroServices, HTML5, CSS3, Sass, jQuery,XML, AJAX, JSON, Angular Js, Bootstrap, AMQP, DynamoDb and frameworks are Django, Django Templates, Django Rest, FastAPI and many more, ensuring quick deployment of product to end users.

In my previous roles, I built and maintained a large number of web applications, designed database and working with MicroServices, and worked effectively in teams to solve challenging problems. I have completed projects in a variety of settings successfully while utilising the most modern and practical technology. Some of my successful projects include Betfaro, where I built a website that allows users to play games like online casino games and bet on any team, including basketball, horse racing, football, and baseball etc. Altumai, where users can store their risk scores on a daily basis; subify, where users can purchase paid vacation packages from clubs; Eu Insider, where users can search the most recent celebrity tweets; and where users can find subscription accounts at the best prices, such as Netflix and Amazon and many more subscriptions. and I accomplished a lot more projects.

I'm now seeking for a tough new job, and I am convinced that I would become a great software engineer. I have a solid reputation for professionalism and honesty, great organizational and communication skills, and a demonstrated ability to work with design teams to ensure effective project delivery and top-notch client service. These are some of my primary strengths.

Please Do not hesitate to get in touch with me so that we can schedule an interview and go over my application in more detail.

Sincerely,

Bhavinkumar Golakiya
